The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Kirkwood club company was held Monday evening.

For some time members of the club have been agitating the building of a gymnasium in connection with the club house. Kirkwood has played an important part in local athletics and the younger element of the organization has desired that it take steps to further promote interests in this line. At the meeting last night this matter was brought up for consideration. It was evident that the sentiment of the members generally was favorable to going ahead with the project. A committee, consisting of H. H. Camp, John Memmer, Harry Williams, Dr. R. B. Carter, and Joseph Bonner was appointed to have plans prepared and to get estimates on the cost of the new building. It is not improbable that a complete new building will be erected. The committee has assurances from a number of sources that the money for the club house and gymnasium can be raised by subscription. The committee will report at a meeting to be held the first Monday in February.

Some time ago Dr. R. B. Carter announced that he would not accept reelection as bowling captain. At the meeting last night it was the unanimous feeling that Dr. Carter was the right man in the right place. He was given every vote and it is probable that he will again consent to act as the captain. He has held the position for three years. It is largely due to his efforts that the Kirkwoods have taken the position they now hold in bowling circles.

Seven directors were elected for the ensuing year as follows: H. H. Firestone, M. G. Snyder, Archie Markle, F. W. Shirer, G. A. Barnes and A. R. Sheehan.

PALMER RE-ENTERS THE RING.
Jack Palmer will re-enter the ring. He has signed articles for a six-round contest with Eddie Foreman at Massillon as a preliminary to the Shlums-Gardner contest. Shlums received word from W. A. Brady announcing that it will be impossible to match him in one of the preliminaries to the Rublin-Jeffries contest. All arrangements have been made for the preliminaries.

WHITTAKER WANTS A GO.
Johnny Whittaker would like a chance to appear in one of the preliminaries at the Rublin show at the Grand. He says that he is willing to meet either Rice or Lenny who fought a 20 round draw at Youngstown Monday night.

RUBLIN IS POPULAR.
Gus Rublin is one of the most popular fighters that ever stepped into the ring, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. He is a big, modest sort of a fellow, with a pleasant smile and a good word for everybody. He has only been fighting a few years, but he numbers his friends by the hundreds. He is popular with the public because he is a good fighter and a good fellow. By his rivals in the profession Rublin is well thought of as he has never in his life uttered a word in public against men who follow the boxing game for a living. Rublin attends to his own business, and while he loves to sit around and listen to the respective merits of the different fighters discussed, he is always careful not to say anything derogatory to their character or fighting ability.

Rublin is managed by a man who has for nearly a quarter of a century been identified with boxing, going through the mill from a bottle holder to the manager of champions.

HIS MANAGER.

Madden is one of the veterans of his line in the new or old world, and, although he is still on the best side of 50 years of age his career dates back to the time when such men as Jim Keenan, Dave Blanchard, Jack Stewart, Nat Goodwin and others of the same element were the representatives of the fancy.

Billy Madden owns up to 48 years of age, but he is a dead ringer today for a Harvard boy, and, what is more, could win a prize in a beauty show. To this can be added his claim of which he can justly be proud. During his career with boxers, Billy declares that he has never been connected with a "wrong" boxing contest, nor has it ever been hinted that he would be a party to a "fake" of any kind. For this character and reputation he can thank his mentor, old Jim Keenan, who had Billy Madden under his wing when Keenan was one of the rulers of sports in this country. Madden must have been "right" by nature or he would not have been so close to Jim Keenan and trusted so much as he was when Keenan reigned supreme in his own little world.

BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

A schedule of games for the city championship has been arranged, and local clubs are rolling up their sleeves in preparation. Six clubs will be in the contest and the first game, that between the Dagues and Grands, will be rolled on the Grand alleys tonight. Following is the schedule for the season:

Tuesday, Jan. 8—Grands vs. Dagues; Grand alleys.

UNCLE ELI'S LOGIC.

Some Little Tales Told For the Education of Mankind.

"Hanner," says I to my wife, "in exchanging a dozen eggs with a peddler for a tin dish the other day, did you put in three bad ones?"
"I did, Eli," she replies.
"That was well. Always get the advantage of a peddler if you can."
"But he beat me after all. The dish leaks in three or four places."
"That is better. Not only should a peddler always seek to get the advantage over a housewife, but the housewife who will deliberately try to swindle a poor but honest man deserves to be tricked."

I went over to see Si Williams the other evening and get his opinion as to how the country could be best saved from destruction.
"Silas," says I, "this old United States is on the verge of ruin."
"She is, Eli," he replies.
"And it's our duty to save her if we can."
"It certainly is."
"I believe—I believe, Silas, that sendin me to the legislature will do the trick. What do you believe?"
"I believe that sendin me there will do it a heap better."
"Silas, you are an ass!"
"Eli, you are a blamed fool!"
And the next day I heard that while we were wastin our time callin each other names a fellow who didn't care 2 cents whether America went up or down got the nomination away from both of us.

"Eli," says my wife one night as she wakes me up with a nudge. "I do believe burglars are in the house!"
"But we have nothin to be burglarized of," I replied.
"If it ain't burglars, then a dog is after that ham in the wood shed."
"That may be, but the ham is so bad we thought of throwin it away, you know.

"Eli, I do believe some one has broken into the barn to steal our horse!" she says after a bit.
"But they will be disappointed. The horse is so lame he can't be got out of the barn. Go to sleep, woman. You have heard nothin but noises thus far, and a noise may mean our veal as well as our woe."
Next mornin I got up to find that some one had stolen our dog, but as he was a dog I had tried in vain to give away I was ahead of the game.

The Emperor's Joke.
"Shall I order up a column of troops?" asked the mandarin.
"A stickful is amply sufficient," gibbered the emperor, Kwang Su.
Being of weak mind, his majesty deemed this jest sufficient not only to manifest his contempt of the foe, but likewise to bolster up the grotesque pretense that the Chinese originated the art of printing.—Detroit Journal.

One Good Trait.
Katie—I don't like Mr. Rox. Katie's Mother—Why not?
"He's got money, and though he has been coming to see me for a year, he never gave me anything in his life."
"I don't know about that. He gives you a chance to get to bed at a reasonable hour, which can't be said of some of the other young men I know."—Detroit Free Press.

"Most Unique."
One can hardly pick up a newspaper nowadays without seeing the old phrase, "most unique." As "it was the most unique entertainment ever given in Podunk valley." If a thing is unique it is unique in the superlative degree. It is not unique. To say that an accident is "one of the most unique that ever occurred" is absolutely "very singular" is a parallel selector—Exchange.
